The lessons in unit 1 address the following terminal objective:

Apply interpersonal and written communications skills to formal and informal communications on the job per cited references.

Introduction to Values and Ethics

As senior enlisted leaders, it's important for us to possess corporate knowledge of the core values by which we operate. Numerous situations have occurred that indicate the time has come for us to refocus ourselves on what is acceptable behavior within our Navy. Today, the entire Navy has stepped back to view itself in the mirror to make this assessment; it's only fitting we all do. A clear understanding of Navy core values will reestablish what the Navy expects from its people when they enlist, reenlist, or are sworn into naval service.

Welcome aboard shipmate and congratulations! You were successful in installing your software and navigating your way here to the Collaboration Forum and the Gold South Group Room!

Edit

You are about to begin an exciting and rewarding journey during which you will face many challenges. By the time you make your last key stroke during the distance learning portion of the class and head to New Orleans, you will have found out so much more about not only the Naval Reserve, but about yourself as well.

Please post a "Hello" on the Forum to let your classmates and I know that you have gained access to our Group Room.

Strap it down Gold South, we're on our way!

I made it to this point with minimal problems. I am trying to get a firm understanding of the grounds before the tempo picks up, then it's up to us as a group...

Edit

I will make myself available as much as I can, I hope I have my eye's open wide enough.

Looks like we are heading to sea, lets enjoy the adventure.

New Orleans, mmm isn't there a party there in Feb!

Good luck all
